

„Fina“ – Women in Action

Are you a woman looking to figure out where your career path is headed? Then Fina is the perfect place for you. Here, through systematic career guidance and long-term trial periods, you can discover what you truly enjoy. We help you understand digital systems and use digital formats. In addition, you can improve your language skills through hands-on work in our creative workshop.

What do you personally gain from this?

In this project, you can explore which areas you particularly enjoy and where your personal strengths lie, so you can make the most of your abilities. You'll acquire important key competencies that you can put to the test during practical trial phases. This will prepare you for further training or for starting work right away in a wide variety of fields.

In addition, if needed, you'll receive support with language learning, training modules on digital processes and structures, job application coaching, and counseling on personal matters (e.g., assistance in figuring out childcare options).
